WINTER EYE HEALTH

The winter weather has arrived, and it's time to protect your eyes, especially as the pandemic may mean you are spending more time indoors. Here are some of the ways that winter can affect your eye health, and some tips for prevention.

WINTER SUN

Sunglasses aren't just for summer. Snow and ice are reflective, so the sun's rays can reach your eyes from below as well as above. The low sun in winter can be dazzling, so wear sunglasses on sunny winter days, particularly when driving.

If you wear glasses, ask about having anti-reflection coating on the lenses to reduce the effects of sun glare while driving.

DRY EYES

Central heating can make already dry eyes feel worse. There are some simple steps you can take to feel more comfortable:

LOWER THE TEMPERATURE IN ROOMS WHEN POSSIBLE.

OPEN WINDOWS, EVEN FOR A FEW MINUTES.

Use a humidifier, or have a bowl of water near the radiator to help humidify the air.

You can get moisturising eye drops or ointments over the counter from your optometrist or pharmacist if you need to.

WINTER LIGHTING

Many people will be working from home this winter, and lighting is very important. You will see better in bright light than in dim light, so you might find that you need to wear your glasses more when the lighting is poor. If you have problems seeing in low light, we recommend:

Sitting close to a window during the day if you need to see something clearly, like the text in a book or magazine.

HAVING GOOD LIGHTING CLOSE TO YOU AT HOME WHEN YOU NEED IT, INCLUDING A LIGHT SOURCE LIKE A DESK LIGHT.

Spending time outside. There is evidence that encouraging children to spend time outdoors could reduce the onset of myopia, so do try and make sure they have some time outside each day.

INCREASED SCREEN TIME

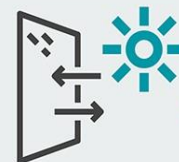

During the pandemic, you may have found that your screen time has increased as you stay indoors more. There is no evidence to suggest increased screen time damages your vision, however you may find it tiring to look at a monitor for long periods of time. To reduce eye strain, we suggest:

Positioning your monitor so it's roughly arm's length away from your eyes.

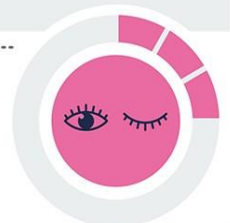

LOOKING AT SOMETHING 20 FT AWAY, FOR 20 SECONDS, EVERY 20 MINUTES.

MINIMISING ANY DISTRACTING REFLECTIONS IN YOUR SCREEN, E.G. WINDOWS.

Blinking regularly. Focusing on a screen may make you blink less, which may make your eyes dry and uncomfortable.

Are you 13 to 17 years of age and live, work or study in Sunderland?

Would you like to know more about Covid-19 and help share public health messages?

Sunderland City council have launched the Covid Champions initiative. The aim is to recruit local young people 13 to 17 years of age who live, work or study in Sunderland, to become Covid Champions supporting our work in responding to Covid-19.

Could you be a Sunderland Covid champion?

Life through Covid-19 has been difficult, with the situation often changing, and information to keep us safe frequently updated. As COVID-19 affects different aspects of our lives, knowing where to get the most up to date information is important. To protect our local communities, we need to get information out that is clear and understandable, to help people make informed choices and stay safe.

How can you help?

We are looking for local young people to sign up as Covid Champions and help share public health messages with as many people as possible. You don't need any special skills, you may be part of a small sports or activity club, youth or social group, or just have a wide circle of friends on social media, we need people with a willingness to get involved and support your local community.

We will work together with Covid Champions to ensure vital health messages are communicated in a way that reaches people across the City. We will provide important updates, key messages and materials for champions to share through their own networks. Work with you to understand what is working or needs to change to help reduce the spread of the virus and keep our communities safe. By having a network of Covid Champions with their own networks and channels we know we can reach more people.

Covid Champions will play a critical role in protecting family and friends by:

- ensuring they get the right information,
- combating myths around Covid-19 and,
- providing feedback on useful ways you have been able to help others.

What next?

We are asking for those who would like to get involved to register an interest and to find out more information, please email laura.cassidy@sunderland.gov.uk

Thank you for your time.

The Waste Hierarchy

Hello from everyone at the Donnison School & Living History North East

At the start of 2021, while we are all trying to keep safe and cope with many Covid-19 restrictions, we have put together a 'bumper' newsletter for you to enjoy.

We start with some 'Fireside Reflections' from our regular contributor Jack Curtis, and articles from three new contributors to our 'Isolation Diaries' - June Laird, Angela Martin and Eileen Wade. These accounts of periods of isolation, give us some fascinating insights into what it was like to be alone, away from family and friends, either because of hospitalisation or posting abroad. We hope you enjoy their very personal memories and reflections and many thanks to our contributors for also sharing their precious and delightful photographs with our readers.

There are also exciting new opportunities and resources for you to enjoy including...

'Seascapes' – Living History North East are delighted to be partners in the new Seascapes Project. This Heritage Coast Partnership with funding from the National Lottery Heritage Fund sets out to bring back to life the rich coastal and marine heritage that lies between the Tyne and Tees. Find out how you can get involved in the Seascapes project! We will be looking for volunteers to act as 'Intergenerational Ambassadors' and oral history interviewers and want to hear from anyone who has stories to tell about the fascinating coastal heritage of this region. The Newsletter includes full details on how you can take part and of course full training and support will be provided.

'Sunderland Heritage Trails' - today we are also launching the 'Sunderland Heritage Trails' web site, which has been developed by Living History North East. This Digitised Heritage Trail enables you to go onto a journey into the past of Old Sunderland and learn all about its places and its people from the comfort – and safety – of your own home. Find out how to access this new web site, take a look and give us your feedback! This is going to be a 'work in progress' with new images and sound scapes also planned in the near future.

Last but not least, we include a full Events Programme for the Donnison School for the first quarter 2021.

The Donnison School remains closed during the lockdown, but our project staff and volunteers have put together a fantastic programme of Recorded and Live Lectures, plus Fun Activities ALL ONLINE so that you can continue to learn about and get involved with the Donnison School and Living History, without the need to come into the building. Many thanks to everyone who is working hard to prepare for and deliver this programme of events and activities – see the Newsletter for full details and news about what else is coming soon...

Finally I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of our partners, locally and regionally and to extend a Big Thank You to the National Heritage Lottery who have provided the emergency funding needed to manage the Donnison School and Living History North East in these unprecedented times.

Take care and stay safe

With very best wishes

Dr Susan J Jones

Chair: Living History North East
