Sharing Your Health Record

What is your health record?

Your child's health record contains all the clinical information about the care they receive. When they need medical assistance, it is essential that clinicians can securely access their health record. This allows them to have the necessary information about your child's medical background to help them identify the best way to help them. This information may include their medical history, medications and allergies.

Why is sharing important?

Health records about your child can be held in various places, including your GP practice and any hospital where your child has had treatment. Sharing your child's health record will ensure they receive the best possible care and treatment wherever they are and whenever they need it. Choosing not to share your child's health record could have an impact on the future care and treatment your child receives. Below are some examples of how sharing your child's health record can benefit them:

- Sharing your contact details This will ensure your child receives any medical appointments without delay
- Sharing your medical history This will ensure emergency services accurately assess your child if needed
- Sharing your medication list This will ensure that your child receives the most appropriate medication
- Sharing your allergies This will prevent your child being given something to which they are allergic
- Sharing your test results This will prevent further unnecessary tests being required

Is my health record secure?

Yes. There are safeguards in place to make sure only organisations you have authorised to view your child's records can do so. You can also request information regarding who has accessed your child's information from both within and outside of your surgery.

Can I decide who I share my health record with?

Yes. You decide who has access to your child's health record. For your child's health record to be shared between organisations that provide care to your child, your consent must be gained.

Can I change my mind?

Yes. You can change your mind at any time about sharing your health record, please just let us know.

Can someone else consent on my behalf?

If you do not have capacity to consent and have a Lasting Power of Attorney, they may consent on your behalf. If you do not have a Lasting Power of Attorney, then a decision in best interests can be made by those caring for you.

What about parental responsibility?

If you have parental responsibility and your child is not able to make an informed decision for themselves, then you can make a decision about information sharing on behalf of your child. If your child is competent then this must be their decision.

What is your Summary Care Record?

Your child's Summary Care Record contains basic information including your contact details, NHS number, medications and allergies. This can be viewed by GP practices, Hospitals and the Emergency Services. If you do not want a Summary Care Record, please ask your GP practice for the appropriate opt out form. With your consent, additional information can be added to create an Enhanced Summary Care Record. This could include your child's care plans which will help ensure that your child receives the appropriate care in the future.

How is my personal information protected?

Bramham Medical Centre will always protect your personal information. For further information about this, please see our Privacy Notice on our website or please speak to a member of our team

Access to GP Online Services

Important Information – Please read before completing the form below

If you wish to, you can now use the internet (via computer or mobile app) to book appointments with a GP, request repeat prescriptions for any medications your child takes regularly and look at your child's medical record online. You can also still use the telephone or call into the surgery for any of these services as well. It's your choice.

It will be your responsibility to keep your child's login details and password safe and secure. If you know or suspect that your child's record has been accessed by someone that you have not agreed should see it, then you should change your password immediately. If you are unable to do this for some reason, we recommend that you contact the practice so that they can remove online access until you are able to reset your password.

If you print out any information from your child's record, it is also your responsibility to keep this secure. If you are at all worried about keeping printed copies safe, we recommend that you do not make copies at all.

During the working day it is sometimes necessary for practice staff to input into your record, for example, to attach a document that has been received, or update your information. Therefore, you will notice admin/reception staff names alongside some of your medical information – this is quite normal.

The definition of a full medical record is all the information that is held in a patient's record; this includes letters, documents, and any free text which has been added by practice staff, usually the GP. The coded record is all the information that is in the record in coded form, such as diagnoses, signs and symptoms (such as coughing, headache etc.) but excludes letters, documents and free text.

Before you apply for online access to your child's record, there are some other things to consider. Although the chances of any of these things happening are very small, you will be asked that you have read and understood the following before you are given login details.

Forgotten history

There may be something you have forgotten about in your child's record that you might find upsetting.

Abnormal results or bad news

If your GP has given you access to test results or letters, you may see something that you find upsetting to you. This may occur before you have spoken to your doctor or while the surgery is closed and you cannot contact them.

Choosing to share your information with someone

It's up to you whether or not you share your child's information with others – perhaps family members or carers. It's your choice, but also your responsibility to keep the information safe and secure.

Coercion

If you think you may be pressured into revealing details from your child's patient record to someone else against your will, it is best that you do not register for access at this time.

Misunderstood information

Your child's medical record is designed to be used by clinical professionals to ensure that they receive the best possible care. Some of the information within your child's medical record may be highly technical, written by specialists and not easily understood. If you require further clarification, please contact the surgery for a clearer explanation.

Information about someone else

If you spot something in the record that is not about your child or notice any other errors, please log out of the system immediately and contact the practice as soon as possible.
