View your Test results on the NHS App

1. Log into the app using your email and password. If you can't remember your password, select 'reset password'

2. Once you have logged in, you will be led to the home page. On this page you should see the option 'GP health record'. Alternatively, you can press the 'Your health' button at the bottom then select 'GP health record'. You may need to scroll down to see this.

3. After selecting 'GP health record', you should be led to a page showing your Name, date of birth, NHS number, and address. In the list below this information, select 'Test results'

4. If your test results have come through, you will see them here. If they are not visible, then they likely have not come through yet.
   Another place you can check is under the 'consultations and events' section of your GP Health record.

5. If there are no test results visible after the amount of time that you were told to wait, contact your GP practice. You can do this via the NHS App on Services > Contact your GP for a document or an update.

   Please note that there is currently an issue where if you have multiple tests done at once and one test result is marked as abnormal, it may accidentally mark all your test results as abnormal. Do not worry as you can view in detail what your exact results are.

If you are concerned about your test results because they have been marked as abnormal. Your GP will be in touch, you do not need to contact your GP. Only contact your GP of you have been waiting a while to discuss your abnormal result.
