

Dementia support services website across the Black Country

One of the most important factors in maintaining quality and enjoyment of life for people with dementia and their families is accessing support.

The local NHS and local authorities have been working together to compile useful and accurate information about dementia support services on one single webpage for the Black Country.

A screenshot of the NHS Black Country Integrated Care Board website. The page title is "Dementia". The navigation menu includes "About us", "Your health", "Have your say", "News and events", "Key documents", and "Working for us". The main content area features a breadcrumb trail: "You are here: Home &gt; Your health &gt; Health advice &gt; Dementia". The text states: "Dementia affects over 900,000 people in the UK and 1 in 3 people over 65. Across Black Country, there are over 14,200 people living with dementia. Just as importantly, 1 in 3 people will be touched by dementia in their lifetime as a carer. People living with dementia and their carers can access local support." Below this is a section titled "What is dementia?" with a sub-heading "What is dementia?". The text describes dementia as a syndrome associated with a decline in brain functioning. On the right side, there is a box titled "Other useful links and information" containing two links: "Read more about Dementia from nhs.uk" and "Alzheimer's Society offer a dementia helpline, resources and information about research projects". At the bottom of the page, there is a footer with "Cookie options", "Select Language", "Text size", "Contrast", and the "frank." logo.
