

PARTICIPATE IN RESEARCH!

Do you have high blood pressure and take at least three medications for this?

We are doing research on how people feel about tests that check whether or not people are taking their medications for high blood pressure, and we want to hear your opinion.

What is involved?

Taking part in one of the following options:

- A single interview that would last approximately 30 minutes, with just you and the interviewer present – this can be completed online, via telephone or in person at the Leicester Diabetes Centre, Leicester General Hospital.
- A single focus group discussion that would last approximately 45-60 minutes; this would include a researcher and approximately 4-5 other participants – this would be completed in person at the Leicester Diabetes Centre

If you are interested or want more information, please contact: Patrick Highton, ph204@le.ac.uk

FUNDED BY

NIHR | National Institute for
Health and Care Research