

National screening programs

- The NHS provides national screening programs so that certain diseases can be detected at an early stage.
- These screening programs include bowel cancer, breast cancer, cervical cancer, aortic aneurysms and a diabetic eye screening service.
- The law allows us to share your contact information with Public Health England so that you can be invited to the relevant screening program.
- More information can be found at: https://www.gov.uk/topic/populationscreening-programmes or speak to the practice.
